

Eleventh Annual Lee White Innovation Institute

“Innovation in Medical Education”

Innovation in Medical Education directly drives our U.S. Health Care System through the training of our future leaders in Healthcare. At this year’s Lee White Innovation Institute, we offer new thinking on this key topic covering advances in clinical education strategies, curriculum development, informatics, technology, and much more. Medical educational leaders from the American Board of Internal Medicine, Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine, Rutgers School of Nursing- Camden, and the Drexel University School of Public Health will share their thoughts and experiences on this impactful topic.
